AUSTIN, TX - The Texas Real Estate Commission (TREC) is pleased to announce former TREC Chief Investigator, Bruce Wooley has been named "2016 Investigator of the Year" by the Association of Real Estate License Law Officials (ARELLO). This prestigious award is a major honor and is a reflection of the exceptional work provided by Mr. Wooley during his tenure at TREC.

Mr. Wooley recently retired from TREC after more than two decades with the agency. A consummate professional in his attitude and approach with both agency staff and the consumers of Texas, his balanced leadership and wealth of institutional knowledge were an inspiration to others and a significant reason for the TREC investigative team's strong reputation and its continued success.

Mr. Wooley was selected for this award by the ARELLO Investigator / Auditor Resource Committee. The award is given in recognition of the combination of skills demonstrated by the year's most outstanding investigative case chosen from a group of highly qualified nominees. Award criteria considered include: Audit/Investigative Techniques, Innovation, Use of Resources, Jurisdictional Violations Discovered, Complexity of Case, Documentation of Evidence, Interview Skills, Creativity, and Report Writing Skills.

TREC Commissioners and Executive Director Douglas Oldmixon congratulate Bruce Wooley for this well-deserved honor. It was our privilege to have such a talented professional shape the TREC investigative team so effectively.
